

Products for the veterinary professional.

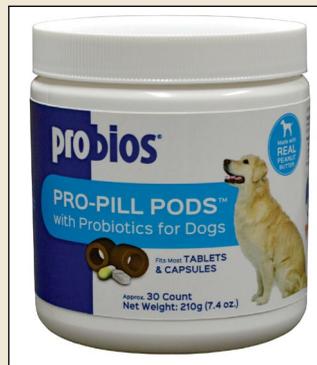

Smart dog bowl

The Obe ProBowl lets pet owners monitor and manage how much and when their dog eats and drinks, according to the manufacturer, Obe Inc. The ceramic bowl connects to Wifi, providing iOS app-using owners with real-time data. A "Say When" light is designed to measure personalized serving sizes. www.obedog.com

Pill masker

Vets Plus Inc. introduces Probios Pro-Pill Pods, which are formulated to hide the taste and odor of dog medications. The edible pill wraps are made with chicken or peanut butter, and they contain probiotics to support appetite, digestion and nutrient absorption, the company reported.

www.probios.com or 715-231-1234

Blood stopper

Vetigel is a plant-based gel formulated to stop moderate to severe bleeding in 12 seconds or less, manufacturer Suneris Inc stated.

Delivered internally or externally by syringe, the hemostasis product may be used in procedures such as biopsies, dental extractions, and emergency and critical care, the company added. www.suneris.co/vetigel or 888-759-7415

Natural pet food

Purina Pro Plan Veterinary Diets EN Gastroenteric Naturals is the first veterinary-channel natural therapeutic food, Nestle Purina PetCare Co. reported. The canine and feline formulations have added vitamins and minerals but no artificial colors, corn or wheat. Both are available in dry and canned varieties.

www.purinaveterinarydiets.com or 800-879-1266

Thyroid analyzer

Heska Corp. releases the Element i Immunodiagnostic Analyzer, an in-clinic immunoassay for confirming hypothyroidism in dogs. The tabletop device also can screen for Cushing's disease and Addison's disease within 10 minutes, the company noted.

www.heska.com or 800-464-3752

Canine dental chew

Merial Inc. offers veterinary-exclusive OraVet Dental Hygiene Chews for dogs. The chews are formulated for daily use and contain delmopinol, a compound commonly used in plaque-inhibiting mouth rinses for people. The product is proven effective at reducing halitosis, plaque and calculus by approximately half, the company added.

www.oravet.com or 888-637-4251

Otitis externa medication

Osumria, a treatment for inflamed or infected canine ears, may help with owner compliance because of its makeup and two-dose schedule, according to manufacturer Elanco Animal Health. Osumria (florfenicol/terbinafine/betamethasone acetate) comes in gel-filled tubes that are administered seven days apart to treat canine otitis externa.

www.elanco.com or 877-352-6261

Electromagnetic therapy

The Assisi Loop 2.0 uses electromagnetic current to reduce inflammation and pain and promote wound healing in cats, dogs and horses, according to the manufacturer, Assisi Animal Health. The upgraded device is available in diameters of 4 and 7.5 inches (shown) and has a strengthened sheath to fend off patients' teeth and maintain the shape.

www.assisianimalhealth.com or 866-830-7342

Hemostatic products

St. Francis Veterinary Medical presents AnimalClot surgical dressings and trauma bandages. Designed to quickly stop arterial and venous bleeds, the products contain thrombin and fibrinogen to help form a fibrin clot.

www.stfranciscvetmedical.com or 800-400-1481

Hemp plant supplements

Pet Releaf launches two cannabidiol-based products: Edibites CBD treats for dogs and CBD Hemp Oil Tinctures (shown) for dogs and cats. The daily nutritional supplements are made with human-grade, organic ingredients, the manufacturer stated. Each is high in antioxidants and essential fatty acids.

www.petreleaf.com or 844-646-1646

Skin stapler

SystemVET introduces the reloadable, autoclavable Vet Stapler and 35-staple cartridges. Designed by Dale Koster, DVM, the skin stapler has an ergonomic feel and provides cost and environmental advantages over disposable human skin staplers, the manufacturer stated.

www.vetstapler.com or 813-925-0203

Microchip reader

Compact Max, a pocket-sized universal RFID scanner from PetLink/DataMars, features a peripheral antenna and a rechargeable lithium battery. The antenna provides top-of-range reading distances, the company noted. The device is designed to read companion animal microchips on frequencies 125, 128 and 134.2 kHz.

www.datamars.com or 781-281-2216, ext. 2015

Liver support

VetriScience Laboratories releases veterinarian-exclusive HepatiClear Pro, a nutritional supplement formulated to address liver health. The supplement contains antioxidant plant extracts in phytosome form to support liver health and proper detoxification, according to the company.

www.vetripoline.com or 800-882-9993

Hypodermic syringes

Nipro Corp. launches VSmart veterinary hypodermic syringes in various sizes. The needle wall is ultrathin, permitting rapid and efficient drug delivery, and the clear barrel assures precise volume reading, the manufacturer stated.

www.nipro.com or 908-393-7030

Bulk hemostasis powder

Clott, an all-natural mineral-based hemostasis powder from Protégé Biomedical, is available in 5-ounce bottles for high-volume needs. The bottle has a sifter top for use with large animals such as horses, cattle, zoo animals and large dogs.

www.protegebiomedical.com or 844-795-5479

